No decision on domestic airports restructure and EOIs yet

ASU delegates and officials from most airports attended a meeting with Qantas domestic airports' management on 2nd April 2014 to get an update on the restructuring plan involving the service and sales desks and baggage services in large airports and the restructure of work in the "regional" airports.

A robust discussion on staffing levels, operational requirements, workloads and rostering took place at this meeting and Qantas management agreed to go away and do more work on their proposals. Your representatives were not convinced that at the beginning of the meeting Qantas airport management understood the implications of the change and cuts they are proposing. We think by the end of the meeting they did acknowledge the points being made. Our next meeting about these issues is on 15th April 2014. We expect to receive more information and analysis from the company.

It is important to ensure that a proper process and analysis has taken place of the EOIs and account is taken of the effect on the ongoing operation for the vast majority of staff who have elected not to express an interest in redundancy.

No one wants an unfair process and we will be working hard to ensure proper consultation and detailed information is available.
