Your wages matter!

The work you do in the Queensland public service is vital. You deserve respect for your work from your employer.

We know that costs of living are going up and all over Queensland people are finding it harder to make ends meet.

Wages aren't just a number: they are part of our standards of living, helping us pay the bills, deal with the things that come up, and live the lives that we all want to live.

This year, public servants are getting together to win fair wages for the next three years.

The only way to win a fair wage increase that delivers for everyone is by a collective union campaign.

Together members are getting involved to secure fair wages in the Queensland public sector in 2018 and for the future.

We need your help to win.

Be a part of the campaign for fair wages – because your wages matter.
